

1 day course:

Developing and evaluating intervention collaboratively

Date: 23 October 2018

Time: 9:30-16.30 (lunch will be provided)

CPD points: 5

Location: The Studio, Manchester, M1 1FN

Course summary

As part of this one day course you will look at the determinants of health and their impact on the types of interventions used. You will also learn about how to evaluate the interventions, including engaging external stakeholders, the types of evidence that should be used and how to use the lessons learned in future, as well as the importance of concepts such as “Proportionate Universalism”.

The day will be delivered by an experienced Public Health professional who will lead you through the topic, with discussions and exercises designed to help you understand the theory and practical examples of how it can be applied in your work/study area.

Facilitator

Professor Gurch Randhawa PhD FFPH DL,
Director of the Institute for Health Research at the University of Bedfordshire

“Great session, great facilitator!” Attendee from May 2018 workshop.

Course Outline

- Determinants of health
- Planning interventions, programmes and services
- Evaluation of Interventions: An overview

What will the course help me do?

On this course, you will learn about how to maximise the opportunities available when managing public health problems and gain the knowledge and skills necessary to plan, deliver and evaluate innovative health promotion interventions.

Learning Outcomes

- Gain an understanding of the range and application of health promotion theories
- Knowledge of the principles and stages of programme planning, implementation and evaluation
- Gain an understanding of the importance of engaging with partners through collaboration to meet needs effectively

UKPHR Practitioner Standards

Regular prices	Early Bird Offer (ends 15th September 2018)
Non-member £140	Non-member £120
FPH Member £99	FPH Member £80
Student £79	Student £70

Registration

Acceptance on the workshop will be on a first come, first served basis with completion of a registration form and payment of the fees. The fees include course materials, lunch and refreshments.

Special promotion – Don’t miss out on early bird offer (ends 15th September 2018)

FACULTY OF PUBLIC HEALTH

Developing and Evaluating Interventions Collaboratively Workshop: 23/10/2018, Manchester

Programme Agenda – Facilitator – Professor Gurch Randhawa FFPH

8:45-9:15 Registration

9:15-9:45 Introduction & Welcome,

9:45-10:25 Introduction to Typology of Public Health Intervention Approaches

10:25-10:45 BREAK

10:45-11:15 Appraisal of Public Health Intervention Approaches

11:15-11:45 Experience-based review of public health intervention approaches (ALL)

11:45-12:45 Exercise – Critical reflection of work-based examples of public health intervention approaches (ALL)

12:45-13:30 NETWORKING LUNCH

13:15-14:15 Introduction to Public Health Intervention Planning Framework

14:15-14:45 Experience-based review of public health planning approaches (ALL)

14:45-15:00 BREAK

15:00-15:30 Introduction to Evaluating Public Health Interventions

15:30-16:15 Exercise – Planning and evaluating a public health intervention

16:15-16:30 Reflections on learning (ALL)

To book or enquiry about this workshop please contact us

W: <https://www.fph.org.uk/news-events/events-courses-and-exams/>

T: 020 3696 1486

E: educ@fph.org.uk